

Henry Lai

Henry Lai is a research professor in the Department of Bioengineering, University of Washington, Seattle, WA, USA. His main research area is the biological effects of non-ionizing electromagnetic fields, including both extremely-low frequency and radiofrequency fields. He is also involved in the development of targeted treatments for cancer.